5. When drawing up a medical record, the physician shall enter sufficient information to describe the person who is the subject of the record, in particular, his name, his sex, his date of birth and his address as well as, where appropriate, his health insurance number.

The physician shall ensure the updating of the information provided in the first paragraph and enter on or add to the record all information and all relevant documents with respect to the person consulting him.

All documents added to or entries made in the record must be in French or English.

(1) the name of the research project, the identification of the research protocol, including the number of the protocol concerned, the identification of the principal investigator and his associates and the approval form in which the research ethics committee attests that the project respects the standards in force, in particular with respect to its composition and operating procedures;

(6) store, in another location, an encrypted backup copy of data so collected.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 9; Decision 12-04-27, s. 10.

10. The physician shall use a system allowing the orderly filing and indexing of the medical records.

This system must allow the physician to identify records or parts of records that have been given to another physician or to the patient.

This section does not apply to a physician who practices in a centre operated by an establishment.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 10; Decision 12-04-27, s. 11.

11. The physician shall ensure the confidentiality of the medical records and restrict access to authorized persons only.

If there is any transmission of information contained in the medical records, including by technological means, the physician shall use methods, devices or systems protecting the confidentiality of this information.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 11; Decision 12-04-27, s. 12.

12. The physician shall maintain a medical record for a period of at least 5 years after the date of the last entry or inclusion in the record, as appropriate, or if it involves a research project, the date on which this project ends.

After this period, the record is considered inactive and may be destroyed.

When the physician practices in a centre operated by an establishment, the rules for conservation and destruction are those applicable to the user’s record.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 12; Decision 12-04-27, s. 13.

13. In the case of an active record, any document less than 5 years old must be preserved, while any the portion dating from more than 5 years since the last entry or inclusion may be destroyed, except for:

(1) anatomopathology reports;

(2) endoscopy reports;

(3) operative and anaesthesia procedure reports from major surgery;
14. The physician shall ensure that security measures suited to ensuring the confidentiality of the personal information of a patient are respected when a medical record is destroyed.

15. When a physician who provides the clinical follow-up of a patient changes place of practice and considers that the change could compromise this follow-up, he must communicate to the patient, by whatever means he considers most appropriate, the address of his new place of practice as well as his telephone number.

This message from the physician indicates, as appropriate:

(1) that he has and still maintains the patient’s medical record;

(2) that he has entrusted the medical record to another physician whose name, address, place of practice and telephone number he mentions, specifying that the transfer of his records does not include any obligation to become a patient of the transferee.

16. Physicians who practice medicine within a group and prepare a single medical record per person or population shall ensure that the documents and information contained in the record are accessible at all times to all physicians in the group.

17. When one of the physicians who practices within a group leaves the group, the other physicians shall, as appropriate:

(1) continue to assume responsibility for keeping, holding and maintaining the medical record;

(2) ensure, at the request of the person who is the subject of the record formulated in the year the physician departs, that the medical record or a copy of it is given to that physician, in which case no fee is charged to the person which has formulated the request. Unless there is a prior agreement, the copying expenses in this case are entirely paid by the physician leaving the group;

(3) ensure, at the request of the person who is the subject of the record, that the medical record or a copy of it is given to another physician, in which case the expense is paid by the person making the request.

In the absence of a request to this effect by the person who is the subject of the record, when the physicians of the group recognize that the person who is leaving is the physician who has assured the management and follow-up of a person, the group shall give that physician, at his request, the original record or the relevant portion of the record. In such a case, unless there is a prior agreement, all of the expense is paid by the physician leaving the group. These expenses may not be claimed from the patient.

The other physicians retain for 5 years the list of records given to the physician leaving or the list of portions of files given.
18. In the event of dissolution of the group, unless there is a prior agreement, the physicians designate, for each record, a physician who continues to assume responsibility for keeping, holding and maintaining it. The latter shall remit to each of the other physicians who were part of the group, evidence that he has obtained the record entrusted to him in the distribution, or the list of records, if more than one record was entrusted to him.

Failing an agreement or if such a designation is impossible, the physician who made the last entry or insertion in the record continues to assume responsibility for keeping, holding and maintaining that record.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 18.

§ 2. Registers

19. A physician shall, for every place where he practices, create and maintain the following registers:

(1) a register in which are identified all the persons who have consulted him, including those he has examined at home or without an appointment, and in which is entered any surgical or invasive procedure performed during such consultation, excluding injections and infiltrations of medications, as well as the type of anaesthesia administered. When this information is contained in the appointment book or the consultation register of the Régie de l’assurance maladie du Québec, these may take the place of this register;

(2) a register in which are identified all the persons subject to a surgical or invasive procedure for which there has been a sending of a sample of a part of a human body or an object;

(2.1) a register in which are identified any incidents and accidents occurring during or in connection with an invasive medical procedure requiring anaesthesia, sedation or analgesia as well as the measures applied to prevent them;

(3) a register in which are identified all the persons he examines, treats or whose treatment he supervises as part of a research project;

(4) a register of benzodiazepines for parenteral use, controlled drugs and narcotics, in the meaning of the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act (S.C. 1996, c. 19), in which are entered the nature and quantity of these substances he has in his possession, the identity of all persons to whom he gives or administers these substances, the nature and the quantity of the substances he has disposed of and the method and date of such disposal.

Except for the register provided in paragraph (1) of the first paragraph, which must be maintained for a period of one year, the registers must be maintained for a period of 5 years.

The physician shall ensure that security measures specifically to ensure the confidentiality of the personal information of a patient are followed when a register is being destroyed.

When the physician practices in a centre operated by an establishment, the registers of the establishment serve as the register in the meaning of this section.

When medications are drugs or other substances within the meaning of the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, the physician shall furthermore maintain them under lock and key.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 21.

22. The physician shall ensure compliance with recognized standards pertaining to the safe storage and elimination of the medications, vaccines, biological products and tissues, flammable, toxic or volatile products and substances as well as the diagnostic laboratory equipment he holds in his keeping, and shall perform a periodic verification of such materials.

Decision 05-02-23, s. 22.

23. A physician who does not practice in a centre operated by an establishment shall ensure that the apparatus he has is calibrated, standardized or inspected in accordance with applicable standards, in order to ensure their normal, safe and high-quality operation. He shall keep the documentation noting any inspection and maintenance measures performed.

The physician shall likewise ensure that the disinfection and sterilization methods used for the apparatus and instruments comply with recognized standards.

The equipment must be inspected periodically; the storage areas for the apparatus and products needed in emergencies must be labelled in a way to make them visible and accessible.
